Allison this is your dad bothering you again. I dont know how long these candles burn, but the last one lit was by your mother in December. Hopefully you are ok were ever the wind is blowing your spirit to. So far there has not been a day that we dont say or do something that reminds us of you. Jack Madden passed away and I told your mother I was going to send you a few words to let you know we are still thinking of you. Love always your Daddy

Thank you for letting me be a part of Allison's life and yours. I have the sweetest memories of being with her. She was a very bright light that shined from above. She had the purest heart. She was an angel on earth and is now a guardian angel. I have always smiled when I think of her and I will never forget her laugh. My sincere condolences to all of you.
