“ Carlton Free was one of the finest men I ever knew. He was my brother-in-law, my friend and constant support in times of trouble. I cannot recall him ever saying anything mean or unkind to anyone. If he had something to say about someone it was sure to be something good. If he loved you, you were indeed a fortunate person.

I will be forever grateful for his care of my sister and her family, his care of my parents, and his care of me.

I got to spend many hours with Carlton and Dorothy. We spent time eating together, playing cards, going places and visiting. We loved getting together at my mama's and helping her.

Carlton left this world a better place than he found it. He left wonderful children, grandchildren, great grandchildren who continue on with what he taught them. Each one of them reflect his kindness and care of others.

I loved Carlton Free dearly.

“ Carlton was always a kind-hearted brother. I remember once when i was about 4 and got in trouble for something (a regular occurrence) and got yelled at, Carlton took me for a ride in his car to make me feel better. When he was stationed at Lackland Air Force Base in San Antonio he sent me a silk pillow with a poem on it that read: "Someone I love, I know loves me; sister of mine, true as can be. Ever I think of the happy days flown, remembering you always, sister my own." I still have that pillow after all these years. I love you brother.
