“ I first met Dennis as he pulled into his driveway across the street from my home in his black olds 442. It was a cool car. I was about 14 and learned that Dennis was the son of a farmer. The hagan's became family friends with Mr Crandall and Ms Maylene often in our home. Dennis shared with me his love of duck hunting. I tagged along many times on the farm where Dennis a junior world champion duck caller would bring them in. He always had that crooked grin on his face. He later must have traded the car for then a cool truck. He was always in his dads shop doing something to allow that truck to get thru any kind of mud on the farm. I would tag along and wished i had the toys he had! He was a hard worker also and i could not keep up. I shoveled rice beside him in the bottom of those bins. He laughed at me a few times in the dust and heat. Our prayers are with his family. Blake Lindsey
