“ My thoughts and prayers are with his family. I worked with Lieutenant Murphy as a Correctional Officer at FCI Fort Worth, Texas, many years ago. The one main memory I have that stands out is after a big storm we had. He was telling me he knew it was going to rain by saying he could smell the rain coming. I said what do you mean smell it? He said you can smell it coming. I just laughed and walked away. So on one evening shift, another officer came to the Control Center where I was working and told me that he was instructed to relieve me and to report to Lieutenant Murphy. I located him and he said, "See? Smell that. It's coming." So to this day, I always remember him when I smell the rain coming. You will be missed, Lieutenant Murphy.

“ Well, an old trusted Friend and fellow Correctional Officer. S.O.S. Murph taught me how to be an old school, straight-up C.O. Larry also taught me allot about life and its ups and downs. Prison Guards are family. I lost a Brother. The world is a lesser place without Larry
