“ I still can't believe that Misty is gone. It was just the other day that I saw her and had I known it would be the last time I would have said more. I wish I had heard her story, and her testimony of God's awesome grace. But after the service given by Bro. Sullivan, I believe one day I'll get to hear it.

To Betty, My deepest most earnest prayers are with you right now. I can't even begin to imagine losing a child. But Misty knew what that was like didn't she. She knows your heart.

To Christy: As a mother of twins myself I know you must feel like a part of you is missing and my heart breaks for you.

To Nancy, Tammy, and Trisha: Remember all the good times, the laughter, the tears, in good times and bad (and you've had your share of bad lately). I am praying for all of you.

To Terry, Ashley, and Joe: No one knew Misty like you did. You saw her heart on a daily basis. I know she loved those sweet grandbabies and all of you as well. That's one thing I'm sure of.

To all the other family members and dear friends: You are in our thoughts and prayers as well.

Misty came to the hospital to see mom about a week before she passed, and texted me every day or every other day to check on her. She really did care about others.

Misty had already started planning a reunion for this summer and I plan on making her plans come through.
