“ My mother was Sally Pounds. She and Wanda were cousins on the Spigner side. They were also card playing buddies in their large group of ladies who met monthly together. I remember Wanda as far back as my pre-school years. She always was so friendly, fun and positive. Her beautiful smile and spirit will be missed. Praying for her loved ones in their loss.

“ "I don't care" was Ms. Wanda's favorite line at Pinecrest. No matter what you asked her most likely this was her response. And she said it like only Wanda could. Quick to laugh and smile we always knew we could count on her to keep us entertained. We will miss her hollering 'domino' when she won at 'bingo'. Then she would laugh at herself when she realized what she said. She will be truly missed because she was truly loved.

My little miss Wanda....God love her. She was my entertainment on our drive to church every Sunday. She hardly ever missed. She always thought she was a burden because she hated to be dependent on anyone to take her but that was far from the truth. She was my reminder that no matter how bad you might feel, go to church. I mean this little spunky lady would crawl up in my suburban with only a little help from me....never complain....and was better than me at it. I was blessed every trip she took with me. I will miss her muchly. May God comfort the family in their time of need. God's got Miss Wanda.
